4. THE BERNARD AMTMANN AND MARIE TREMAINE FELLOWSHIPS

The Bernard Amtmann Fellowship is offered in memory of Bernard Amtmann (1907 - 1979) the noted bookseller and specialist in Canadiana. The Fellowship was offered for the first time in 1992 and will be offered every three years thereafter to support the work of a scholar in one of Mr. Amtmann's principal areas of interest: Canadiana, book collecting, bookselling, and bibliography. Special Consideration will be given to applicants working on some aspect of the book trade. The Fellowship, which is in the amount of $1500.00, is open to non-Canadians and to those who are not members of the Bibliographical Society of Canada.

The Marie Tremaine Fellowship is offered in memory and through the generosity of Marie Tremaine (1902 - 1984) the doyenne of Canadian bibliographers. The Fellowship was instituted in 1987 and is offered annually to support the work of a scholar engaged in some area of bibliographical research, including textual studies and publishing history and with a particular emphasis on Canada. The Fellowship, which is in the amount of $1000.00 is open only to members of the Bibliographical Society of Canada.

Both Fellowships will be awarded only in support of specific research projects involving discrete areas of research. Projects which are part of some larger undertaking will not be considered unless they can be completed on their own and can lead the findings which are reportable or publishable in themselves. The funds available are for out-of-pocket expenses as travel fares and subsistence, and technical services or supplies and may not be used for salaries or stipends. The fellowships are awarded in the spring.

The fellowship applications appear in this issue of the Bulletin.

La bourse Bernard Amtmann est offert à la mémoire de Bernard Amtmann (1907 - 1979), libraire réputé, spécialiste en livres rare canadiens. Elle fut offerte pour la première fois en 1992 et le sera à tous les trois ans. Elle fut conçue dans le but d'encourager le travail d'un chercheur ou d'une chercheuse dans un des champs d'intérêt de M. Amtmann les livres rares canadiens, la bibliophilie, la librairie et la bibliographie. Les projets traitant d'un aspect du commerce du livre seront examinés en priorité. La bourse est 1500.00$. Toute personne, canadienne ou non, membre de la Société bibliographique du Canada ou non, peut faire une demande d'inscription.

La bourse de recherche Tremaine est offerte en souvenir de et grâce à la générosité de Marie Tremaine (1902 - 1984), la doyenne des bibliographes canadiennes. Ces bourses ne sont offertes que pour des projets de recherche spécifiques portant sur des sujets déterminés. Les projets faisant partie d'un travail de recherche plus vaste ne seront pas considérés sauf dans le cas où ils peuvent être présentés ou publiés séparément. Les fonds sont disponibles pour défrayer les frais de voyages et de séjour, les services techniques et les fournitures mais ne doivent pas être utilisés pour payer des salaires ou allocations. Les bourses sont accordées au printemps.

Le formulaire pour les bourses est disponible dans ce numéro du bulletin.

5. THE AMTMANN FELLOWSHIP NEEDS YOU!

Every year members of the BSC generously donate money to support the work of the Society. A few members earmark their donation for the Amtmann Fund, but some may not be aware of the history and importance of the Amtmann Fellowship, or of its current financial difficulties.

Sandra Alston was intimately involved in the transfer of the Amtmann Fund to the BSC and in the creation of the Amtmann Fellowship. She summarizes the history of the grant:

The Amtmann Circle was founded in 1979 to honour the memory of Bernard Amtmann (1907-1979), the founding president of the Antiquarian Booksellers' Association of Canada, who devoted more than thirty years of his life to the discovery, study, and understanding of Canadiana. The objects of the Circle were to encourage scholarship in Canadian history and bibliography, antiquarian bookselling and book collecting. The membership encompassed librarians, archivists, booksellers and book collectors, providing a forum for these groups to come together. Regular lectures were held, and the Circle published a series of books.

By 1989 the Amtmann Circle had come to an end and the Executive decided that the funds remaining in the treasury should be given to a similar organization in the book world. It therefore transferred its remaining funds to the Bibliographical Society of Canada/Société bibliographique du Canada, which was to institute a fellowship, called the Amtmann Fellowship, to be awarded to projects furthering the interests of Bernard Amtmann, supporting research in Canadiana, bibliography, and book collecting and the book trade in particular. The fellowship, in the sum of $1500, was to be awarded every three years.

The first recipient of the Amtmann fellowship was Bertrum MacDonald, Director of the School of Library and Information Studies at Dalhousie University. Prof. MacDonald writes:

I was privileged to be the first recipient of the Bernard Amtmann Fellowship. This award provided enough funds for me to begin a line of research that I expect will take numerous new turns as I continue to explore the history of print culture in Nova Scotia and beyond. With the Amtmann Fellowship I examined the records of James Dawson & Son, a bookselling and publishing firm located in early Victorian Pictou, Nova Scotia. That initial study was the focus of papers presented at conferences in Canada and Scotland, and will form the basis of two forthcoming publications. More importantly, that initial study pointed to numerous new avenues of study. The Amtmann Fellowship was a true catalyst.

In 1995, Peter Mitham, an independent researcher then living in New Brunswick, won the scholarship.

Without the Amtmann Fellowship, I would not have spent as much time touring libraries, archives, and bookshops in pursuit of material for my bibliography of Robert W. Service. It allowed me to cultivate the personal contacts that are perhaps the most vital elements of this sort of project. Printed matter may be the core of academic research, but often people, and their personal relationships with those items, are what hold the whole together and move it forward.

No qualified researcher applied for the fellowship in 1998, allowing the BSC to invest both principal ($9011) and interest ($1760) towards the award in 2001. But interest rates have fallen so dramatically in recent years that the capital will earn only $1507 by 2001--barely enough to make the award.

When you renew your membership for 1999/2000, if you are thinking of making a donation to the BSC, please consider the Amtmann fund. At the same time, if you are currently engaged in a research project that qualifies for the fellowship, consider applying for the award in 2001. The Amtmann Fellowship needs you!

6. CITATION FOR THE 1999 TREMAINE MEDAL AWARD TO DR. CARL SPADONI

Note: The following is the English Text delivered by Anne Yandle on 8 June 1999, In Sherbrooke, Quebec on the occasion of the presentation of the 1999 Tremaine medal to Dr. Carl Spadoni.

What a joy it is to honour one of our own! On the recommendation of the Tremaine Medal Committee, the Council of the Bibliographical Society of Canada takes great pleasure in awarding the 1999 Tremaine Medal for outstanding service to Canadian bibliography, and for distinguished publication to Dr. Carl Spadoni.

Dr. Spadoni received his Ph.D. in 1978 from the University of Waterloo and his M.L.S. from the University of Toronto in 1980. He began his career in the William Ready Division of Archives and Research Collections at McMaster University, first as the Bertrand Russell Archivist and currently as Research Collections Librarian.

His range is astounding, as is his capacity for sustained work to the highest scholarly standard. Dr. Spadoni's list of publications is long and significant, as is his list of awards and grants. Author, or co-author, of five books, two of which were published in the past year, his major contribution has been in the field of bibliography.

Dr. Spadoni has received a number of grants from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council, two have assisted in the publication of astounding Canadian bibliographies. In 1990, Dr. Spadoni undertook a major scholarly work with Judy Donnelly, A Bibliography of McClelland and Stewart Imprints, 1909-1983: A Publisher's Legacy. It includes his scholarly historical introduction, full descriptive bibliographic entries for almost 3700 titles, appendices on imprints not located, archival resources, as well as a landmark appendix on series, and two indexes. A model of its type, this bibliography was published in 1994 by ECW Press.

That very year Dr. Spadoni embarked upon another major work, again with the assistance of a SSHRCC grant.

A Bibliography of Stephen Leacock (ECW Press, c 1998) can be described as "one of Canada's premier bibliographies, if not the foremost in its field": a massive descriptive, analytical and historical bibliography.

In 1998 Dr. Spadoni received his second Marie Tremaine Fellowship, this one to prepare a critical edition of Leacock's Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town.

Anna mirabilis continued with the publication by the University of Toronto Press of his edition of Leacock's My Recollection of Chicago; and, The Doctrine of Laissez Faire.

One wonders whatever does he find to do in his spare time? Much of it has been spent in the service of the Bibliographical Society of Canada, An active member of the Society for many years, Dr. Spadoni has been a conference programme convener, a member of Council, a presenter of papers, a productive contributor of articles and book reviews, After serving as English Book Review Editor, he became General Editor of the Society's major publication Papers of the Bibliographical Society of Canada / Cahiers de la Société bibliographique du Canada and served in that capacity from 1993 to 1997,

Much of this has been accomplished during Dr. Spadoni's most active period as a bibliographer, and while working full-time at the Mills Memorial Library, McMaster University, where he teaches a graduate course, "Bibliography and Professional Skills", for the Department of English. He also serves the broader scholarly community by his activities on adjudication committees (SSHRCC) and in refereeing submissions to scholarly presses and journals.

Carl Spadoni is a scholar, "and a ripe and good one"! [Henry V111, Act IV, Sc.ii, l. 41] His disciplined philosopher's mind and firm determination demand almost impossibly high standards of himself and others; but, he has the gift of inspiring excellence. There is no question that he has always sought the highest bibliographical good, and today he is our "philosopher king".

9. SHARP 1999

Report from the Seventh Annual SHARP Conference, Madison, Wisconsin, July 1999.

The welcome extended to delegates at this year's annual conference of the Society for the History of Authorship, Reading and Publishing was very warm in both senses of the term. The conference was hosted by the Center for the History of Print Culture in Modern America (a joint program of the University of Wisconsin-Madison and the State Historical Society of Wisconsin). Wayne Wiegand and James Danky, and their colleagues on the planning committee, organized an interesting and varied programme. The sessions included over one hundred and twenty papers and presentations, and two plenary lectures: Janice Radway's audience appreciated greatly her unique blending of scholarship and personal anecdote on the topic of readers and reading; and Nicolas Kanellos offered an impressively wide-ranging lecture on Hispanic culture (including print culture) in the United States.

The sessions ranged from pragmatic panels on the teaching of book history, through thought-provoking papers addressing theoretical concerns (such as that by Leslie Howsam), to fascinating case studies (for example, Slovenian publishing by Miha Kovac). Contributions from Canada included ten papers and a report on the History of the Book in Canada project to the session on book history projects internationally. A summary of that session, by Ian Willison, will appear in the Winter issue of SHARP News (the quarterly newsletter of the Society).

The Canadian papers resulted from a wide array of research which may be of interest to readers of the Bulletin: Nabokov's Lolita and censorship (Susan Mooney), Ezra Pound and expatriot print culture (Craig Monk), the international interchange of scientific information (Bertrum MacDonald), second and subsequent editions in non-fiction publishing (Leslie Howsam), modernism and the Smart Set magazine (Sharon Hamilton), missionary heroes in nineteenth-century texts (Gail Edwards), genre, memory and identity (Marija Dalbello), regional publishing in a global economy (Ann Cowan and Rhonda Bailey), cross-border medical publishing (Jennifer Connor) and, American-Canadian book trade connections (Fiona Black).

The annual meeting of the Society included the membership report indicating that there are now over one thousand members from twenty-seven countries. Some of these members are also involved in local and national bibliographical societies. As SHARP grows in membership, it is also gaining greater visibility on the international scholarly scene through such endeavours as the annual prize for a monograph on book history (awarded this year to Adrian Johns's The Nature of the Book: Print and Knowledge in the Making). The President, Simon Eliot, announced the possibility of Society "completion grants" for book history research-in-progress and annual awards for dissertations in book history – both of these proposed initiatives may be pertinent for members of BSC.

As at past SHARP conferences, one of the pleasures at Madison was the opportunity to meet research colleagues from different continents. The well organized social events included a reception held in the Library of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, where library staff showed exemplary calm in the face of happy delegates waving around glasses of wine with potentially dangerous abandon.

The SHARP conference next year will be in Mainz, as an adjunct to the celebrations of the six hundredth anniversary of the birth of Gutenberg. Information about the conference, including the call for papers, appears in SHARP News and at the Society's web-site: <http://www.indiana.edu/~sharp/> Members of BSC who are interested in joining SHARP may contact the Membership Secretary, Dr Barbara Brannon, Office of Public Relations and Publications, Wesleyan College, 4760 Forsyth Road, Macon, Georgia 31210-4462 USA (Fax 912-757-5104).

Fiona A. Black, University of South Florida (Tampa) and Regina.

"We invite articles that offer a critical analysis of the relations between anglophone or francophone Canadian literature and the publishing industry, both at home and abroad. Articles with a historical or contemporary focus are equally welcome, as are those of a polemical or prophetic nature (providing they are well-argued and fully supported). Articles may have a broad focus or take a narrower case-study approach.

The Future of the Book (ACCUTE)

This session -- I am assuming it is for the 2000 conference of ACCUTE -- takes as its starting point Robert Coover's 1992 NYT Book Review article "The End of Books" ... "Was Coover wrong in his assessment that the end of the era of books had arrived? In short, does the book have a future? What might that future look like?"

Proposals 300-500 words in length, should clearly indicate the originality and scholarly significance of the paper, the line of argument, the principal texts the paper will address, and the relation of the paper to existing scholarship on this topics. Completed papers should fulfill the same criteria and be no longer than 12-13 typed double-spaced pages.

Please send by November 15, 1999, to:

12. Copp Clark Company Archives Fonds

Copp Clark Company fonds. -- 1856-1993. -- 10.8 m of textual records, 29 photographs, 6 framed items.

The history of Copp Clark Company can be traced back to 1841, when Hugh Scobie, a Scotsman opened a book and stationery store on King Street East in Toronto. In 1847 he produced the first edition of the Canadian Almanac and Directory, published annually thereafter. After Scobie's death, the firm changed hands and names several times until 1869 when two employees, William Copp and Henry Clark, gained control, eventually giving the company the name of The Copp Clark Company Limited. By the early 1900s, Copp Clark had evolved into a major educational publisher of textbooks, primarily in language arts and mathematics. As well as producing books and stationery items, the company established its own typesetting, printing and binding operations, branching out into games and greeting card manufacturing. In 1900 the company moved to a new office and warehouse on Front Street in Toronto, but the building was destroyed by fire in 1904. Copp Clark acted as agents for many American and British publishers an published works by such notable authors as Sir Winston Churchill, G.K. Chesterton, Joseph Conrad, Rudyard Kipling and Edith Wharton. In 1965 the business was bought by Pitman Publishing, and the name was changed to Copp Clark Pitman. Copp Clark Pitman was affiliated with Longman (owned by Pearson P.L.C.), which purchased the press in 1985. Copp Clark Pitman celebrated its 150th anniversary in 1991. In June 1998, Copp Clark Professional, the only remaining division of Copp Clark, ceased operations. At that time, a major donation of Copp Clark imprints (post-1880) was received by the National Library. The company's nineteenth-century publications were donated to the Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library at the University of Toronto in 1989. Researchers should note that the fonds is fragmentary and incomplete, focusing primarily on the business side of the company's activities.

The Bibliographical Society of America (BSA) invites applications for its annual short-term fellowship program, which supports bibliographical inquiry as well as research in the history of the book trades and in publishing history. Such topics may include establishing a text or studying the history of book production, publication, distribution, collecting, or reading. Enumerative listings do not fall within the scope of this program.

BSA fellowships may be held for one or two months. The program is open to applicants of any nationality. Fellows will be paid a stipend of up to $1,500 per month in support of travel, living, and research expenses.

In 1999 the BSA awarded eleven months of support to nine scholars from a variety of disciplines.

Applications, including three letters of reference, for this program will be due on December 1, 1999. International Colloquium - Sherbrooke, Quebec 2000

World Wide Changes in Book Publishing in Book Publishing From the 18th Century to the Year 2000

Organizers: Jacques Michon and Jean-Yves Mollier
Université de Sherbrooke

9 - 13 May 2000

Since the publication of the four-volume Histoire de l'édition française (1983-1986), various research projects and publications on the regional and national histories of publishing have proliferated. Presently there are a number of works on the go in Australia, Canada, the United States, Great Britain, New Zealand and in many European countries. Published results will soon provide us with an overview of the evolution of publishing both in the ancient and new worlds. Information gathered here and there by researchers will provide us with food for thought and lead to the first essay on comparative history. We will have to forego case analyses in favour of comprehensive results in order to note long-term tendencies and establish parallels between the various regions concerned. A study of the dominant publishing standards for each region surveyed will help in our research on the major changes in publishing on a world-wide scale. It is also hoped that the project will provoke further studies in areas only slightly touched on such as India, Africa and the Arab-Muslim world.

Colloque International - Sherbrooke 2000

Les Mutations du Livre et de L'Édition Dans Le Monde du XVIII^e Siècle à L'An 2000

Responsables: Jacques Michon et Jean Yves Mollier

Université de Sherbrooke

9 - 13 mai 2000

Depuis la publication des quatre volumes de L'Histoire de l'édition française au milieu des années 1980, les projets et publications d'histoires nationales du livre et de l'édition se sont multipliés dans le monde. Plusieurs ouvrages collectifs consacrés à l'histoire du livre et de l'édition sont actuellement en chantier en Australie, au Canada, aux États-Unis, en Grande-Bretagne, en Nouvelle-Zélande et dans plusieurs pays européens. L'heure d'une première synthèse internationale, même provisoire, se fait maintenant sentir. Elle devrait permettre d'éviter les erreurs de perspective et enrichir les recherches futures. C'est pourquoi le Groupe de recherche sur l'édition littéraire au Québec (GRÉLQ) de l'Université de Sherbrooke dirigé par Jacques Michon et le Centre d'histoire culturelle des sociétés contemporaines de l'Université de Versailles Saint-Quentin-en-Yvelines, dirigé par Jean-Yves Mollier, ont pris l'initiative d'organiser un grand colloque international d'histoire comparée qui aura lieu à Sherbrooke en mai 2000. Les cinq thèmes suivants ont été retenus: 1. Les modèles éditoriaux européens à l'assaut du monde; 2. Les mutations de modèles européens hors de leurs frontières; 3. Autonomie et autonomisation des systèmes éditoriaux; 4. Circulation des idées et des innovations; 5. Massmédiation du livre.

Thomas Fisher Library, University of Toronto:

All in the golden afternoon: The Inventions of Lewis Carroll

All in the golden afternoon celebrates the Library's acquisition two years ago of the Joseph Brabant Collection of Lewis Carroll and Charles L. Dodgson. The exhibition concentrates on the special strength of the Brabant Collection, its magnificent run of editions of the Alice books from 1865 until almost the end of the twentieth century. Also shown are some of the rare Dodgson material. The exhibition is arranged under seven headings: The Collector and His Collection; Mr. Dodgson and Lewis Carroll; C.L. Dodgson as Correspondent; C.L. Dodgson as Photographer; The Artists and Alice; The Hunting of the Snark and Other Poems; C.L. Dodgson as Artist; and The Works of C.L. Dodgson.

This exhibition and catalogue have been a collaboration between Richard Landon, the Fisher Library's director, and Alice Moore, one of his students. Stan Bevington and his colleagues at Coach House Printing, designed and printed the catalogue.

The Josphe Brabant exhibition catalogue (costing $30.00) can be ordered from:

Alice's Adventures in Wonderland: A Virtual Exhibit
<http://www.library.ubc.ca/spcoll/alice/index.html>

The Alice 100 Collection celebrates the 100th Anniversary of the first publication of Alice in 1865.

Over a seven year period, a well known rare book dealer in Victoria, R.D.Hilton Smith gathered almost 500 books for the collection. The collection includes more than 200 editions of Alice's Adventures in Wonderland usually accompanied by Through the Looking Glass and displays the work of more than 80 illustrators. The collection includes the 1866 official first edition to a calf-bound set that bears Alice Hargreaves' (Alice's married name) signature. The collection also includes parodies and imitations, musical and stage productions, film stills, translations, as well as other works by and about Carroll.

In 1965, the collection was donated to the University of British Columbia by the graduating class of 1925 in celebration of their 40th anniversary. Today, this delightful collection can be found in the Special Collections and University Archives Division

18. FUTURE INITIATIVES

I would like to share with members the discussion and decisions taken on future directions for the Bibliographical Society of Canada/Société bibliographique du Canada at the Council meeting in the Fisher Library, Toronto, ON, October 24, 1999.

I reviewed with Council the history and activities of the BSC/SBC in comparison with those of the Bibliographical Societies of America, London, and Virginia. Like these three Societies, BSC/SBC defines itself as a scholarly society, with a deep concern for the physical qualities of the book, having a great concern with bibliographical standards, and publishing journals and monographs.

Unlike these three societies, BSC/SBC has a particular commitment to Canadiana and Canadian Studies, undertakes a truly national role by holding annual meetings in different cities across the country (with papers in both English and French), and is much less focused upon descriptive/analytical/textual bibliography and more upon the history of the book and enumerative bibliographic policy. Finally but not incidentally, BSC/SBC is much less well endowed financially than its three sister societies.

A particular reason for my initiating this discussion at this time is the Bibliographical Society of America's "Report of the Committee on BSA Activities," distributed in April of this year.

Chaired by John Bidwell, the Committee issued a fourteen page Report "exposing...shortcomings and [proposing] forward-looking...recommendations" and organized under four headings (1) Meetings, (2) Publications, (3) Fellowships, and (4) Electronic Texts and Resources, plus a conclusion and two Appendices (Summary List of Recommendations) and (Preliminary Checklist of Major Works Published for or by the BSA). In essence, the Report recommends that Conferences, Publications, and the Fellowships programme be greatly improved. Concerning Electronic Texts and Resources, the Report recommends that BSA improve its web site, have stronger electronic links with other bibliographical societies such as BSC/SBC, and encourage the scholarly study of electronic texts - "electronic bibliographic issues" - using and adapting the techniques developed for the study of printed materials.

What then is the future of the BSC/SBC in this quickly changing environment? The Society is relatively small, with sufficient resources to carry out modest but effective programmes. We organize annual Meetings, and occasionally major events such as the 1992 Third National Conference on Canadian Bibliography. We have a small Fellowships programme that is drastically under funded. Our Publication programme is limited largely to the Papers/Cahiers and the Bulletin; it is many years since we published a monograph. We have a certain impact upon Canadian bibliographic policy. As far as electronic bibliographic texts and communication are concerned, we do little beyond our web site and BIBSOCAN.

Following a presentation by Ralph Stanton on fund raising, Council passed motions creating the two following committees: Strategic Planning, Chaired by the President and composed of the two Vice-president, Gwen Davies and Gwynneth Evans, David McKnight, and Ralph Stanton; and Fund Raising, composed of the President and Ralph Stanton. Both Committees are to report to Council and the Annual General Meeting in June 2000.

Your comments and reactions to these discussions and decisions would be greatly appreciated.

Peter F. McNally
President

19. On the Web

As many members of the society know, the world wide web can be both a boon and a bane for researchers. In an effort to keep members informed of new and useful sites, the editor of the Bulletin will publish in each issue a list of web sites which, the editor hopes will prove useful. Members should feel free to send to the editor the names and addresses of sites that they would like to share with the membership at large.
